'Boyz N the Hood' director John Singleton dead at age 51

The family withdrew life support for the director early Monday.

John Singleton, who made his movie directorial debut with the acclaimed "Boyz N the Hood," about young men struggling in a gang-ridden Los Angeles neighborhood, died on Monday at the age of 51, his family said.

Singleton recently suffered a stroke, a family spokeswoman said.

"We are sad to relay that John Singleton has died," a statement from the family said. "John passed away peacefully, surrounded by his family and friends."

Earlier on Monday, the family said it had made the "agonizing decision" to withdraw life support from Singleton.

Singleton was a native of South Central Los Angeles, the community that was the setting for "Boyz N the Hood," a drama about friendship amid the peril of gang violence.

He became the first African-American and the youngest person to be nominated for an Academy Award for Best Director, at age 24, for the movie.

Singleton later directed movies such as action film "2 Fast 2 Furious" and historical drama "Rosewood." He was the creator and executive producer of current cable TV series "Snowfall," about

Deputy Attorney General Rosenstein is resigning

2 U.S. Deputy Attorney General Rod Rosenstein, who appointed Special Counsel Robert Mueller in May 2017 to investigate links between the Russian government and President Donald Trump's campaign, said on Monday he was resigning from his post. Rosenstein's departure, effective May 11, was not a surprise. He had been expected to step down in March, and Trump has already nominated Deputy Transportation Secretary

Jeffrey Rosen to replace him. Rosenstein ended up staying on the job longer to help AG William Barr manage the public release of Mueller's findings from his 22-months-long investigation, which was completed on March 22. In a letter to Trump, Rosenstein echoed two of Trump's signature phrases, writing that he helped staff the department with officials "devoted to the values that make America great" and adding that "we always put America first." Avenatti pleads not guilty in bank fraud case

3 Lawyer Michael Avenatti, known for his battles with U.S. President Donald Trump, pleaded not guilty on Monday to federal charges that he allegedly stole millions of dollars from clients and failed to pay taxes. Avenatti, 48, who drew international attention for representing adult-film star Stormy Daniels in her litigation against Trump, entered his plea in federal court in Santa Ana, California, Fox News reported. He faces separate federal charges in California and New York. California prosecutors accused him of misusing more than $12 million he received on behalf of clients following settlements and other negotiations. Avenatti, who is free on $300,000 bond, in a statement Monday cited Trump and said he was entitled to be presumed innocent. "We don't convict someone in America based on a one-sided argument and a press conference," Avenatti said. REUTERS

Youth suicides escalate after '13 Reasons Why' debut

4 Suicides by young Americans rose by almost a third in the month following the 2017 streaming debut of popular Netflix television series "13 Reasons Why," in which a teenage girl is shown slitting her wrists, a U.S. study showed on Monday. The TV show was associated with a 28.9 percent increase in suicide rates among U.S. youth ages 10-17 in April 2017, the National Institutes of Health-supported (NIH) study said. It also said rates of suicide for 10- to 17-year-olds were higher in the months following the debut, resulting in an additional estimated 195 suicide deaths from April to December 2017 versus expectations based on past data. The researchers acknowledged the study had limitations and said they could not make a direct "causal link" between "13 Reasons Why" and the increase in suicide rates or rule out other factors. Biden calls himself 'union man' at first 2020 campaign event

The former VP addressed the Pittsburgh Teamsters.

Former Vice President Joe Biden officially kicked off his White House campaign on Monday by hosting a union event in Pittsburgh just hours after securing his first labor endorsement.

Biden told Teamsters members who attended his first event as a 2020 contender that restoring a vibrant middle class would be the theme of his campaign.

"I make no apologies. I am a union man. Period," Biden told the packed union hall. "The country wasn't built by Wall Street bankers, CEOs and hedge fund managers, it was built by you."

Among those who introduced Biden was Harold Schaitberger, the president of the International Association of Firefighters, a 300,000-member union that endorsed him ahead of the Pittsburgh event.

In a Twitter fusillade, Trump said that while leaders of the firefighters and other unions would endorse Democrats in the 2020 race, "the members love Trump."

Biden soon fired back on Twitter. "I'm sick of this president badmouthing unions," he said.

Biden, who joined the 2020 Democratic race last week, has long styled himself as a champion of blue-collar workers. He is counting on organized labor to comprise a significant part of his support.

In endorsing Biden, IAFF's Schaitberger called him "one of the staunchest advocates for working families."

In Pittsburgh, Biden, 76, laid out his vision for bolstering the nation's middle class. He will next head to the early voting state of Iowa.

The Democratic field now features 20 contenders, many of whom are making bids for backing by labor. Six other Democratic candidates on Saturday addressed union members at an event in Las Vegas, pledging support for policies such as a $15 federal minimum wage.

"This may be the most pro-union group of candidates we've seen in decades, making it tougher for any one candidate to line up significant union support," said Steve Rosenthal, a former political director for the AFL-CIO who is advising unions on their 2020 strategies. REUTERS

Bruins hit road for Game 3

The series is tied, 1-1, as the scene shifts to Columbus.

MATT BURKE
matthew.burke@metro.us

The Bruins' first-round series with the Maple Leafs had the feel of a seven-gamer early on, as Toronto took Game 1 and the Bruins took Game 2. The two teams went back and forth up until Game 7, when the B's finally won two straight to take the quarterfinal matchup.

Through two games in the semifinals, this Bruins-versus-Blue Jackets series also looks determined to go the distance. The B's won 3-2 in overtime in Game 1, and the Jackets took Game 2 in OT, 3-2.

It has been difficult to pick up on any concrete trends through two games, but it sure looks like both starting goaltenders in this series will be locked in for the next 10 days or so.

The Bruins' Tuukka Rask and Columbus' Sergei Bobrovsky have both been outstanding so far this postseason, so don't expect any 7-6 slobberknockers in this series.

Neither goaltender has allowed a game to completely get away from them, something that routinely happens in playoff hockey. Rask's "worst" game so far this postseason was Game 4 of the Leafs series, when he allowed four goals. But the Bruins still wound up winning that whacky contest in Toronto, 6-4, largely thanks to 38 deflected shots by Rask.

Tuukka Rask has been phenomenal between the pipes for the Bruins so far this postseason.

ICON SPORTSWIRE

Rask also had 38 saves in 83 minutes played this past Saturday.

Bobrovsky, meanwhile, has been just as impressive — if not more so — than Rask in the month of April. The Russian netminder allowed just eight goals total in Columbus' four-game sweep of No. 1-seeded Tampa Bay in the first round, and he gave up just two goals in the 83-minute Marathon of a game on Saturday against the B's.

"He made some huge saves at key times," Blue Jackets head coach John Tortorella said. "I said it earlier prior to [Saturday night's] game. He's playing at a different level not just in the playoffs but the last quarter of the season. He has played at a level that I haven't seen him play at. As you can see, we're going to need it."

Funky Pasta

David Pastrnak finally got back on the board Saturday night as he found the net for the first time in 10 days. That said, he still does not entirely resemble the winger that racked up 81 points during the regular season.

At practice on Monday, Pastrnak skated with Charlie Coyle and Marcus Johansson on the third line. Here were all of the practice lines from Monday heading into tonight's Game 3 in Columbus (7 p.m., NBCSN):

Bruce Cassidy clearly wants some of Coyle's recent magic touch to rub off on Pastrnak. Coyle, the 27-year-old East Weymouth native, has registered at least one point in the Bruins' last three games.

Game 2 Celtics–Bucks spread doesn't drop by much

Talk about a statement victory!

Heading into Tuesday night's Game 2, the Celtics clearly have a legitimate shot to win their NBA Eastern Conference second-round series after humiliating the eight-point favorite Milwaukee Bucks, 112-90, Sunday afternoon.

That's a 30-point cover! Sharps who bet the Bucks to win the series were scratching their heads through Sunday lunch, as were those who laid the points at earlier lines of -7 or -7.5. Many old-school dog lovers, though, did find the full eight points appealing in the hours before tipoff.

Obviously, the points ultimately didn't matter. Boston did what it wanted to do on both sides of the floor, winning 2-point shooting 61 percent to 36 percent, 3-point shooting 42 percent to 33 percent, and rebounding, 51-44.

Al Horford meets Giannis Antetokounmpo at the rim Sunday.

Head coach Brad Stevens came up with a great defensive game plan for neutralizing (and frustrating) Milwaukee sensation Giannis Antetokounmpo.

Al Horford executed it to perfection, while also adding in 20 points on the offensive end.

Now the ball is in Milwaukee head coach Mike Budenholzer's court.

What worked so well during the regular season, and against playoff pretender Detroit in the first round, will be irrelevant against Boston if he can't counter.

Betting markets are assuming there will be a counter. That's one of the basic tenets of the "zig-zag theory," where you bet the previous game's loser against the spread the next time out. Game 2's point spread didn't drop significantly despite Boston's dominance. The global opener was Milwaukee -7.5.

The Over/Under did show a big adjustment. Game 1's betting total closed at 223.5. After the teams combined Sunday to score just 201, the market moved downward to an opener of 220.5. Boston's played four Unders in five playoff games so far thanks to its emphasis on defense and controlling pace.

Some of you may be wondering why we only said the Celtics "have a legitimate shot." Doesn't breaking serve on the road put them in control of their own destiny? Aren't they now the series favorite?

No. Projected prices would still suggest Boston will lose a home game to Milwaukee. The Celtics will be small home favorites in Games 3, 4 and 6 (if necessary). Small home favorites win straight-up just over 50 percent of the time rather than all the time.

That said, Boston can change the mind of the market and the percentages by winning again in Milwaukee Tuesday. Two service breaks by a smart, experienced playoff foe would probably be too much to overcome for the inexperienced, and suddenly humbled, Bucks.

Aries Get along with your peers, and protect your reputation. A jealous or competitive individual will not play fair. Keep an open mind, but use your intelligence to outsmart opposition.

Taurus A chance to alter the way you deal with domestic, financial, legal or health issues should be looked at carefully. Someone will tempt you with false information.

Gemini Confusion will set in due to mixed messages someone sends you. When uncertain, ask direct questions, and be prepared to walk away if you aren't satisfied with the answer.

Cancer Make your point, but if your audience isn't receptive, don't waste your time. Draw on your skills and experience to get things done.

Leo Participate in events and activities that are geared toward learning, meeting like-minded people and supporting a cause you believe in. Personal improvement and romance are favored.

Virgo Live and learn. Attend functions that interest you and draw on expert advice before you jump into something you know little about. Don't take risks, overspend or indulge.

Libra Engage in something that interests you. If you expand your skills, knowledge and insight, you will find a way to turn a negative into a positive. Romance is encouraged.

Scorpio Focus on creativity, new beginnings and valuable partnerships. A project you've long thought about can be started. Don't feel that you must stick to traditional methods.

Sagittarius If you control your emotions, personal matters will be easier to deal with. Refuse to let anyone interfere with the way you run your household or conduct a relationship with a loved one.

Capricorn Keep the past where it belongs. If you give someone a second chance to disrupt your life, the blame will be yours and yours alone. Walk away from unpredictable people and situations.

Aquarius If you get involved in events that you feel passionate about, you'll meet people who will become lifelong allies. An encounter with someone from your past will pique your interest.

Pisces Don't let confusion set in due to someone else's words or actions. Stick to the facts and don't repeat information that may not be true. Emotional manipulation is apparent. EUGENIA LAST
